There bales, as compared with 4,606,000 bales lest year, and in will be a great aid to higher prices, according to bulls, if further increases are shown during the next few weeks and this year's takings catch up with last. While the report of the spingles which is 73,000,000 bushels in excess of ners' takings increased interest in buying the method during the method and processed in the spingles of the spingles the bulls, and despite many wires from the South that the Giles report was overestimated it was only on the report of the spinners' takings that they showed any power to raily the market, and that did not last, as outside buying decreased. Wail Street houses continued selling, largely because of the weakness in the stock market, and the Waldorf interests were among the buyers.

Waldorf interests were among the buyers. Some of the buying was said to be for Memphis people, who were credited with having sold in advance of the National Ginners

There are indications that the marke is discounting a Government ginning repor of 11,900,000 bales or over. This is partis offset by the numerous advices from all over the South that the crops are nearly all picked and that farm exhaustion is indicated in the near future. A sharp reduction in the volume of farm shipment is looked for soon and smaller ginners returns will follow of necessity. The trade is giving more attention to actual move ents now that guessing the crops is no longer in order, in view of the nearness of actual facts and figures. A comparison of sight receipts shows several interesting facts, including the showing that cotton received from first hands to the end of November was only 91,000 bales less than in the record breaking grop of 1911. The weakly movements to that date were 7,226, 784 bales, compared with 7,317,728 bales in Another point of note is that after the first month to six weeks of crop movements the weekly receipts this year were greater than for the corresponding weeks last year. Weather conditions and maturities in both seasons have been comparatively even These facts indicate that this year's crops will be larger than earlier estimated. Last year's crop was marketed early on account of low prices, while this year sales have been large because of high prices.

The Liverpool market was strong at the opening, but declined toward the close because of the Giles estimates. Spot cotton was quiet and unchanged, middling uplands at 12.75; middling Gulf.

Deliveries on contract included bales. Spot cotton prices in the principal Southern markets were: Orleans, 12%; Savannah, 121/2; Memphis, 13; Houston, 12%; Augusta, 12%. Prices for Open- High- Low- Clos- Prev. ing. est. est. ing. Close. ember, 12 25 12 27 12 19 12 22 12 35

Most reports are to the effect that plant is well rooted and healthy in color. There are some complaints of lack of moisture. The estimated average condition of winter wheat is 92.5, with area

31,500,000 acres. Argentina cabled: "Rains have fallen in the centre and south. The area under wheat scorched by the recent hot wind was between Azuz and Juarez, in the cen-tral part of the province of Buenos Ayres In Bahia Blanca and Carhue, souther enos Ayres, the damage by the hot wind is beyond redemption. The oats crop has suffered slightly and elsewhere crop pros-pects are good, with beneficial rains." Chicago wired: "Armour bought May and sold December corn. Lamson sold

May wheat around $1%. Barrett bought There is an improved flour inquiry." A Board of Trade statistician says: "Pri mary receipts of wheat are 75,000,000 bushels more than last year on the crop, while stocks of wheat at primary points are 37,230,000 bushels, against 50,503,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth have 15,277, 000 bushels of wheat, compared with 19,767,-000 a year ago. Considering the magnitude of the crop and the primary movement the stocks do not appear burdensome."

It was proposed to divide the congested district into sections, the workers of one section to go to lunch at 11:30 A. M., those of another at noon and those of the third of another at noon and those of the third at 12:30 P. M. There appeared a disinclination on the part of the unions to change the lunch hour on the ground that if any change were made employers were likely to take the excuse for lengthening the working day.

Abraham Bisno, for the unions, said better results would attend a proposition to make the lunch time only half an hour instead of an hour and let the workers home half an hour earlier.
